There are approximately 450 privately/municipally owned campgrounds in the province.

VISITOR INFORMATION CENTRES

Alberta Tourism, Parks, Recreation & Culture operates ten Travel Alberta Visitor Information Centres located at key entry points into the province.

In addition, there are over 120 visitor information centres located throughout the province operated by the local municipality or region.

Tourism Development Branch encourages the growth and expansion of marketable tourism products and the development of new and enhanced destinations by:

- Partnering with industry, municipalities, and others to develop strong destinations throughout Alberta, particularly in rural areas;
- Working with the Aboriginal community to develop Aboriginal tourism product;
- Providing business advisory services to existing tourism operators and start-up proponents;
- Promoting increased investment in Alberta's tourism industry;
- Positioning land for tourism development; and
- Facilitating a supportive regulatory and policy environment.
